FOREWORD

BY
PETE ROZELLE, COMMISSIONER

The decade of 1960–69 was one of expansion and grea change in professional football. As the National Footbal League begins its 51st season under still another change– a merged, 26-team league composed of the 10 forme members of the American Football League and the 1 NFL teams—our special goal is to make the next decad the Stabilizing Seventies.

Paramount in that stabilization is getting our main em phasis away from the meeting room that produced th great new franchises, the merger agreement, and realign ment, and back to the playing of the game, to the on-the field competition that has always brought so much enjoy ment to so many millions of our fans.

We feel that with our realignment into two 13-team con ferences—the American Football Conference, made up o the 10 AFL teams plus Baltimore, Cleveland and Pitts burgh, and the National Football Conference, which in cludes the remaining 13 NFL teams of the pre-1970 era– we will not only maintain but increase the high caliber o play and strong rivalries that have developed in past years This year, for the first time, teams that existed for 10 years in the American Football League will be playing regula season games against clubs from the old NFL. In the new NFL, we want to continue as many of the old rivalries as we can but we also look ahead with considerable anticipation to the beginnings of new ones like Kansas City vs. St Louis, Dallas vs. Houston, Jets vs. Giants, Miami vs. Atlanta Cleveland vs. Cincinnati, Oakland vs. San Francisco, and Los Angeles vs. San Diego.

We look forward to a post-season schedule that each year will be climaxed by the Super Bowl, which in just fou years has established itself as one of the world's foremos sports events. Last year, the game in New Orleans' Tulane Stadium was played before a record crowd of 80,562 and set an alltime record gate of some $3.8 millions for a single day team sports event. Did you know more people watched the Super Bowl on television than watched man's first walk on the moon?

We expect the response for the next Super Bowl to be no less enthusiastic.

When the agreement was made to merge the AFL and the NFL in the summer of 1966, we allowed ourselves four years to implement the actual merger. We felt at the time that it gave us a chance to put professional football on a foundation that would carry it for many years. We hope 1970 and the decade ahead shows we have taken advantage of that opportunity.

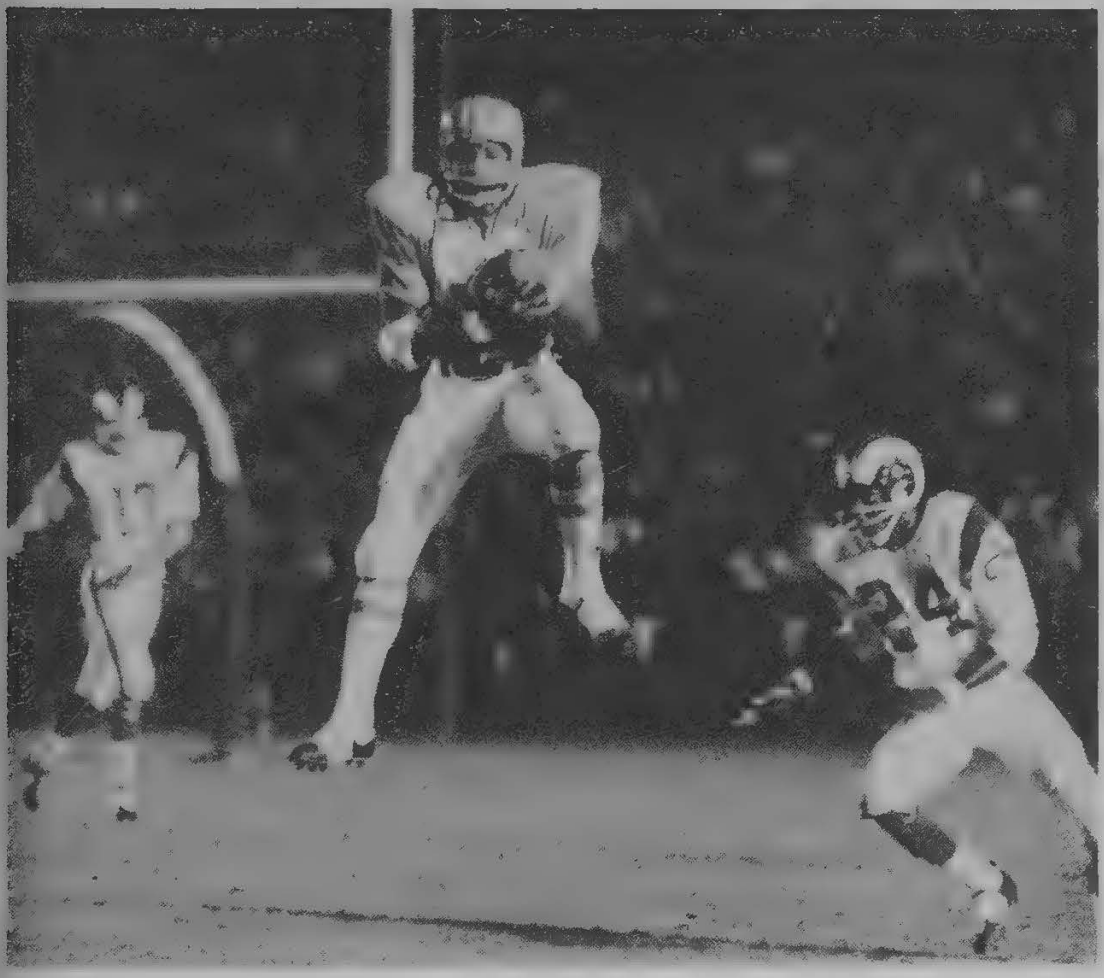
PREVIEW OF THE SEASON

The start of the second fifty years of the National Football League means new rivalries through inter-conference play and realignment, new chapters added to old rivalries, a new playoff system that should stimulate more fan interest than ever, and hopefully, continued growth in the sport.

In the four years since the 1966 agreement to merge the American Football League and the National Football League into a single, expanded 26-team league, there have been many additions to professional football—the Super Bowl, the combined draft, pre-season inter-league competition, restructuring of the league administrative offices among them. But none carries the impact of the new look for 1970. Since so much has happened and will happen, it would seem that a review would be in order.

Beginning with this season, the National Football League is made up of the 26 teams of major professional football, divided into two 13-team conferences, with each conference further broken down into three divisions.

Denver's Floyd Little (44) takes Tensi handoff and heads for a hole.



Otis Taylor of the Chiefs goes high for a catch before Williams rams him.

The 10 former American Football League teams—Boston, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Denver, Houston, Kansas City, Miami, New York Jets, Oakland and San Diego—have been joined by Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh from the pre-1970 NFL to form the American Football Conference (AFC). They've been realigned in this manner:

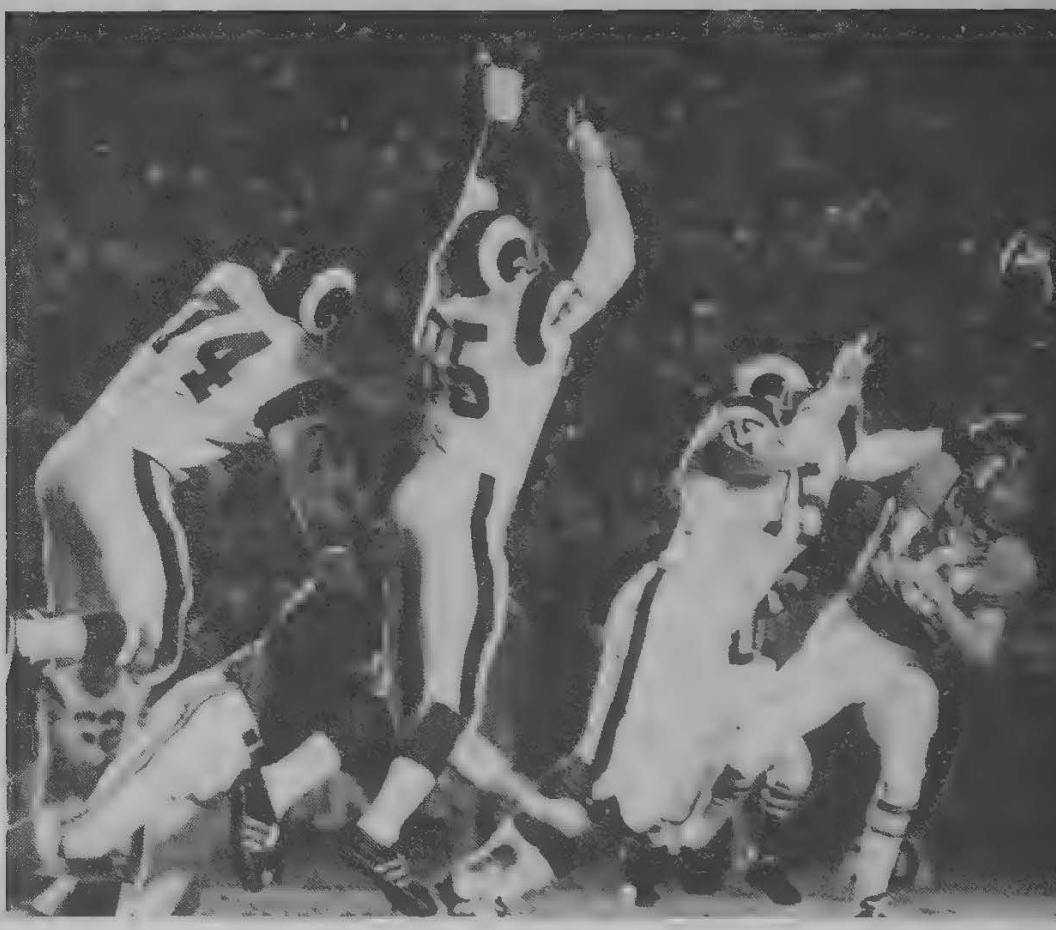
Eastern Division—Baltimore, Boston, Buffalo, Miami and New York Jets.

Central Division—Cincinnati, Cleveland, Houston and Pittsburgh.

Western Division—Denver, Kansas City, Oakland and San Diego.

The 13 remaining teams from the pre-1970 NFL now form the National Football Conference (NFC). They've also been realigned into one five-team division and two four-team divisions:

Eastern Division—Dallas, New York Giants, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Washington.



Rams' Fearsome Ones, Jones (75), Lundy (85), Olsen (74) get Dawson

Newly acquired Junior Coffey of the Giants takes it through the Card

Central Division—Chicago, Detroit, Green Bay and Minnesota.

Western Division—Atlanta, Los Angeles, New Orleans and San Francisco.

During the 1970 regular season, each of the teams in a four-team division will play six games within their division (home-and-home with the three other teams), five games with the teams of the two other divisions in their conference, and three games with teams from the other conference. Each of the teams in a five-team division (the Eastern in each conference) will play eight games within its division (home-and-home with the four other teams), three games with teams in the other two divisions of their conference, and three games with teams in the other conference.

There are two exceptions to this pattern. Under the realignment agreement, Denver receives a fourth inter-conference game and, to accommodate the Broncos, a team from one of the NFC's four-team divisions also must play a fourth inter-conference game. In 1970, that NFC team is San Francisco.

During the 14-week regular season, 182 games will be played. Of these, 88 are intra-divisional, 54 are inter-divisional, and 40 are inter-conference. Thirty-one of the 40 games represent pairings that for the first time match teams from the old AFL and NFL in regular season competition, and adding in the new foes for the three teams that moved—Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh—the number of games between old AFL and NFL teams on the 1970 schedule totals 60, or nearly a third of the total schedule.

For instance, Kansas City's Super Bowl champions in 1970 will play Minnesota (in a Super Bowl rematch), Dallas and St. Louis from the pre-1970 NFL. Oakland will play Washington, Detroit and San Francisco. Denver—which has an extra inter-conference game—will play Atlanta, San Francisco, Washington and New Orleans.

But Baltimore, which now is in the AFC, will have 11 of its games against former AFL teams. And Cleveland and Pittsburgh, the two others that moved, will have nine of their games against former AFL foes—two fewer than Baltimore because the Browns and Steelers play each other twice.

The inter-conference pairings thus permit the start of new "natural" rivalries like New York Giants vs. New York Jets, Houston vs. Dallas, Kansas City vs. St. Louis, Oakland vs. San Francisco, Los Angeles vs. San Diego, Atlanta vs. Miami, but there still will be plenty of the old, traditional games—Chicago vs. Green Bay and Detroit, Los Angeles vs. San Francisco, Giants vs. Washington, Cleveland vs. Pittsburgh, and a continuance of the more recent rivalries like Oakland and Kansas City, Boston and Buffalo, Jets and Oakland, Dallas and St. Louis, New Orleans and Atlanta, Denver and San Diego.

At the end of the regular season, the three divisional winners plus the non-winning team with the best won-lost percentage will qualify in each conference for post-season competition.

The divisional playoff games will be played two on Saturday, December 26, and two on Sunday, December 27. The four winners will advance to the AFC and NFC championship games on Sunday, January 3, and the AFC and NFC champions will then meet for the Super Bowl championship at Miami's Orange Bowl stadium on Sunday, January 17. The post-season schedule ends a week later with the playing of the All-Star Game, matching the best of the AFC against the best of the NFC.

Under the rotation established, the Eastern and Western Division champions of the AFC and the Eastern and Central Division champions of the NFC will be the home teams for the 1970 divisional playoff games.

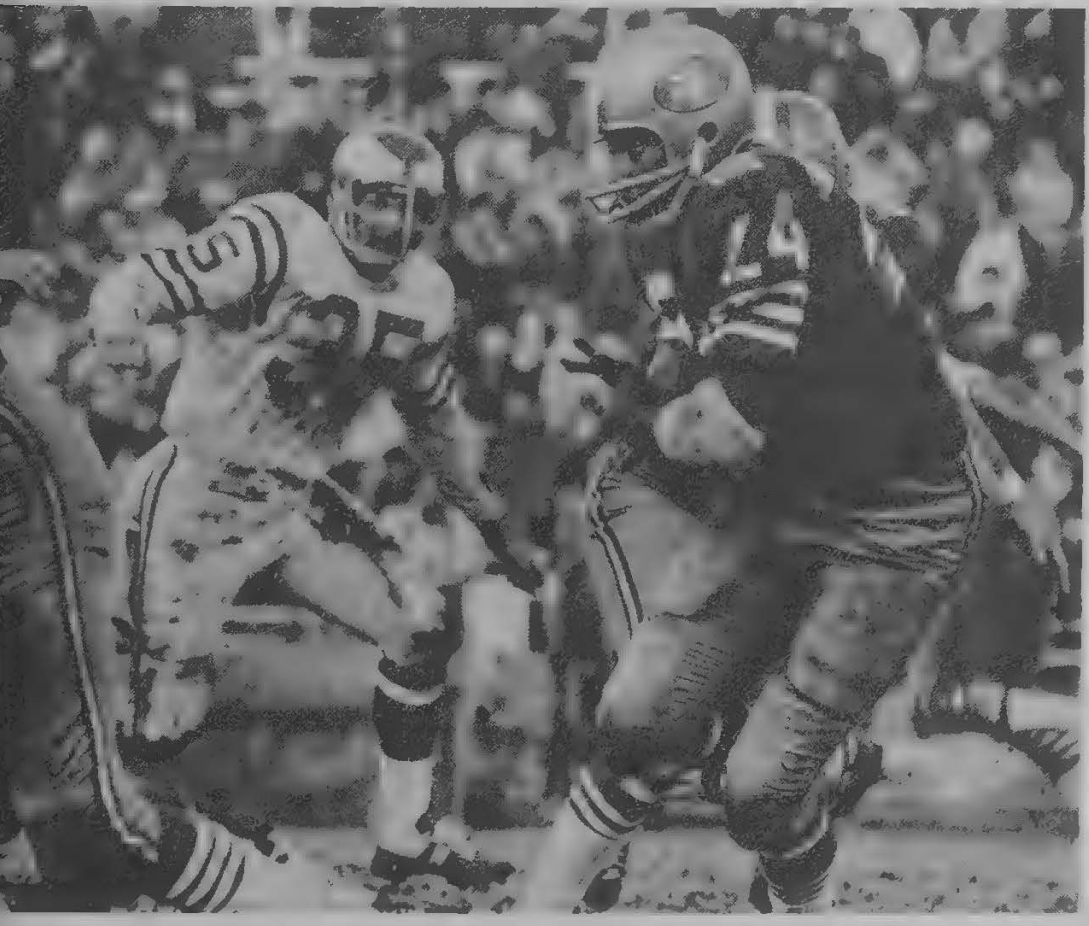
The drawings also involved Conference championship game sites for the next three seasons, each of which will depend upon the results of the divisional playoff games. The rotation was established as follows:

DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAMES

American Football Conference	National Football Conference
A—Eastern	A—Eastern
B—Western	B—Central
C—Central	C—Western

Boston's Rookie of the Year Carl Garrett gains against the Bengals.

Adrian Young (35), Eagle linebacker, lines up the 49ers' Jim Thomas.



CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

1970—Eastern (A)	1970—Western (C)
1971—Western (B)	1971—Eastern (A)
1972—Central (C)	1972—Central (B)

Under the divisional playoff game formula adopted, A and B will be the home teams for 1970 and C and D, th latter being the second-place team with the best percent age in the conference, will be the visitors. C will be at A and D at B unless D is from B's division. In that event, D will be at A and C will be at B.

Second year 1971: B and C home teams.
A at B and D at C, unless D i from C division.
In that event, D at B and A at C

Third year 1972: C and A home teams.
B at C and D at A, unless D from A division.

Fourth year 1973: Rotation is recycled.

In the conference championship games, the rotation fo home sites for the first three years was drawn as follows:

American Conference—A, B, C

National Conference—C, A, B

If the designated division representative should lose i the divisional playoffs, the next division in the rotatio would become the home site. If both the designated div sion and the next division should lose in the divisiona playoffs, the third division in the rotation would becom the home site. An example: If in the American Footba Conference, A is beaten in the divisional playoffs, the B would be the home site. If both A and B are beaten will be the home site.

In no case will D, the best percentage second-plac team, be the home team—either in the divisional or th conference championship games.

If in the example above, C becomes the home site fo the American Football Conference championship gam in 1970, then A would be the original designated site fo 1971. If B becomes the home site in 1970, then C woul be the original designated site for 1971.

Three clubs—Cincinnati (Riverfront), Philadelphia (Phila delphia Veterans), and Pittsburgh (Three Rivers)—will b playing in new stadiums in 1970, bringing to 15 the number of NFL clubs who play in stadiums that have either been built or considerably enlarged in the last 10 years. Next year, new stadiums will open in Dallas and Kansas City and planning is underway for new structures in Boston (Foxboro), Buffalo and New Orleans.

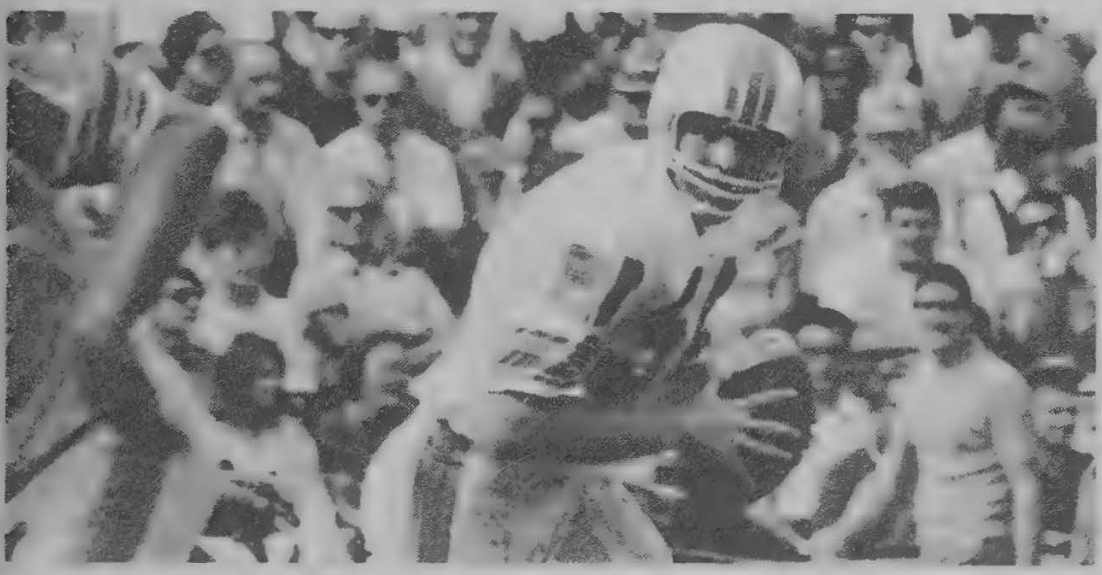
The 1970 season brings professional football one more first as it becomes the only sport ever to be under contract to all three major television networks at the same time. For the next four years, CBS has the broadcasting rights to NFC games, NBC has rights to AFC games, and ABC will televise nationally a 13-week series of Monday night games.



Bob Griese of Miami had a good year as the Dolphins' quarterback.

PASSING

TEAM CHAMPION—The Dallas Cowboys, who finished first in only one of the four categories on which the title is based, edged the Los Angeles Rams, who led in two rating categories. Dallas was first in average gain per pass play (7.13 yards), tied for second in touchdown passes (24), sixth in lowest percentage of interceptions (5.1), and seventh in percentage of completions (53.2) Thus, on a basis of one point for first place, two for second, three for third, etc., the Cowboys accumulated 17½ points, the lowest total of the 16 teams. Los Angeles had the most TD passes (25) and the lowest interception percentage (1.7), was sixth in percentage of completions (53.4), and 10th in average gain per pass play (5.82 yards). Washington had the highest completion percentage (61.9).

INDIVIDUAL CHAMPION—Sonny Jurgensen of Washington, who previously won in 1967. Jurgensen was second in completion percentage (62.0), third in percentage of interceptions (3.4), fourth in touchdown passes (22), and 11th in average gain (7.02 yards). Roman Gabriel of Los Angeles led in TD passes (24) and lowest percentage of interceptions (1.8). Bart Starr of Green Bay led in completion percentage (62.2), and Don Horn of Green Bay led in average gain (8.96 yards).

LONGEST COMPLETION—Roman Gabriel of Los Angeles, 93 yards to Wendell Tucker for a touchdown on first play from scrimmage in 41–30 victory over San Francisco on November 9.

A recharged Sonny Jurgensen gave the Redskins a winning season.

PUNT RETURNS

TEAM CHAMPION—The Detroit Lions, with 21 returns for 230 yards and an 11.0 average. The Dallas Cowboys led in 1968 with a 13.5 average on 30 returns for 405 yards.

INDIVIDUAL CHAMPION—Alvin Haymond of the Los Angeles Rams, with a 13.2 average on 33 returns for 435 yards. Haymond finished second with a 13.4 average in 1968 when Bob Hayes of Dallas won the title with a 20.8 average for 15 returns for 312 yards. Hayes was third in 1969.

MOST YARDS GAINED—Haymond's 435 yards led the league and topped every other team total in the league. The league record is 555 yards by Bill Grimes of Green Bay in 1950.

LONGEST RETURN—Rickie Harris of the Washington Redskins, 86 yards for the winning touchdown in 20–14 victory over New York on October 19.

SCORING

TEAM CHAMPION—The Minnesota Vikings, for the first time in their nine-year history, with 379 points. The record is 466 by Los Angeles in 1950. Cleveland had the most touchdowns, 45.

INDIVIDUAL CHAMPION—Fred Cox of the Minnesota Vikings, with 121 points, the most ever solely by kicking in a single NFL season. Cox made 43 extra points without a miss and was successful on 26 of 37 field goals. The record is 176 by Paul Hornung of Green Bay in 1960.

MOST TOUCHDOWNS—Tom Matte of the Baltimore Colts and Lance Rentzel of the Dallas Cowboys each scored 13. Matte scored 11 TDs rushing and two on pass receptions; Rentzel scored 12 on pass receptions and one on a fumble recovery. Leroy Kelly of the Cleveland Browns led in 1968, with 20. The record is 22, by Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears as a rookie in 1965.

MOST POINTS AFTER TOUCHDOWN—Don Cockroft of the Cleveland Browns, with 45 in 45 attempts. Mike Clark of the Dallas Cowboys led last year with 54. The record is 56 by Danny Villanueva of the Dallas Cowboys in 1966.

MOST FIELD GOALS—Fred Cox of the Minnesota Vikings, 26 in 37 attempts. Mac Percival of the Chicago Bears led in 1968, with 25. The record is 28 (in 49 attempts) by Bruce Gossett of the Los Angeles Rams in 1966.

BEST ONE-GAME PERFORMANCE—Ben Hawkins of the Philadelphia Eagles, 24 points on four touchdown pass receptions in 41–24 victory over Pittsburgh on September 28; and Davey Williams of the St. Louis Cardinals, 24 points on four touchdown pass receptions in 51–42 loss to New Orleans on November 2.

PASS RECEIVING

INDIVIDUAL CHAMPION—Dan Abramowicz of the New Orleans Saints, with 73 receptions, two more than the total that won in 1968 for Clifton McNeil of the San Francisco 49ers. Abramowicz is New Orleans' first departmental champion. The record is 93 by Johnny Morris of the Chicago Bears in 1964.

MOST YARDS GAINED—Harold Jackson of the Philadelphia Eagles, with 1,116 yards on 65 receptions, in his first full NFL season. Two other players exceeded 1,000 yards in 1969: Roy Jefferson of the Pittsburgh Steelers, 1,079, and Dan Abramowicz of the New Orleans Saints, 1,015. The record is 1,495 by Elroy Hirsch of the Los Angeles Rams in 1951.

MOST TOUCHDOWNS—Lance Rentzel of the Dallas Cowboys, with 12. The record is 17 by Don Hutson, Green Bay, 1942, and Elroy Hirsch, Los Angeles, 1951.

RUSHING

TEAM CHAMPION—The Dallas Cowboys, for the first time in the club's 10-year history, with 2,276 yards. The record of 2,885 was set by Detroit in 1936. Dallas is the first team since Chicago in 1956 to be top-rated in team passing and also gain the most yards rushing. With 2,846 net yards gained passing, the Cowboys repeated as overall offensive leader, with 5,122 yards; it was Dallas' third overall title in four years.

INDIVIDUAL CHAMPION—Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears, with 1,032 yards, ending the two-year reign of Cleveland's Leroy Kelly, who had 1,239 yards in 1968 and 1,205 in 1967. Sayers also won the title in 1966, with 1,231 yards. The record is 1,863 yards by Jim Brown, Cleveland, in 1963.

BEST AVERAGE—Tony Baker of the New Orleans Saints, with 4.8 for 642 yards on 134 attempts. Sayers led in 1968, with 6.2. The record is 9.9 by Beattie Feathers of the Chicago Bears in 1934.

MOST TOUCHDOWNS—Tom Matte of the Baltimore Colts, with 11, breaking Leroy Kelly's three-year hold on the title. The record is 19, by Jim Taylor, Green Bay, in 1962.

MOST ATTEMPTS—Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears, with 236. Kelly led last season, with 248. The record is 305 by Jim Brown, Cleveland, in 1961.

BEST ONE-GAME PERFORMANCE—Leroy Kelly of the Cleveland Browns, 151 yards on 22 attempts in 20–7 victory over Green Bay on December 7. It was Kelly's 20th 100-yards-or-more performance. Sayers also has 20 100-yard rushing games. Only Jim Brown (58), Jim Taylor (26) and Joe Perry (22) have more. The record for one game is 237 by Jim Brown in 1957 and again in 1961.

LONGEST RUN—Clint Jones of the Minnesota Vikings, 80 yards for a touchdown in 31–14 victory over Chicago on November 2. It was the longest run from scrimmage in the NFL since Green Bay's Jim Taylor ran 84 yards on November 8, 1964. The record is 97 yards by Andy Uram, Green Bay, 1939, and Bob Gage, Pittsburgh, 1949.

PASSING

TEAM CHAMPION—The Cincinnati Bengals, who led in gain per pass play (8.83), one of the four categories on which the title is based. Leaders in the other contributing categories were Kansas City, percentage of completions, 55.8; Oakland, touchdown passes, 36; and San Diego, percentage of interceptions, 4.7. Oakland netted the greatest yardage, 3,271 and lost the least yards, 104 on the fewest tackles of its passers, 12. Cincinnati had the fewest number of passes intercepted, 15, and had the greatest average gain per completion, 16.69.

INDIVIDUAL CHAMPION—Greg Cook of Cincinnati, the first rookie passer to win the title. He led in one of four title-contributing categories, average yards gained, 9.41. Other category leaders were Daryle Lamonica of Oakland, 34 touchdowns; Len Dawson of Kansas City, percentage of completions, 59.0; and John Hadl, of San Diego, percentage of interceptions, 3.4. Lamonica also was the yardage leader, 3,302, and had the most attempts, 426 and the most completions, 221.

LONGEST COMPLETION—Mike Livingston of Kansas City, 93 yards (Otis Taylor 79 yards, lateral to Robert Holmes 14 yards for touchdown), October 19 against Miami, in 17–10 victory. The record is 98 yards by Jacky Lee of Houston to Willard Dewveall in 1962.

The National Football League was organized on September 17, 1920, in Canton, Ohio, under the name of the American Professional Football Association. The name was changed to NFL in 1922. At one stage or another during 1920, the first season, 13 clubs fielded teams. There was no planned schedule of games. The teams that season were the Akron Steels, Buffalo All Americans, Chicago Cardinals, Chicago Tigers, Canton Bulldogs, Cleveland Panthers, Columbus Panhandles, Dayton Triangles, Decatur Staleys, Detroit Heralds, Hammond Pros, Rochester Jeffersons, and Rock Island Independents. Formal standings were first compiled in 1921.

Dick Butkus of the Chicago Bears, oldest team in professional football.

ALL-TIME TEAM vs. TEAM RECORDS

(Key: All series listed alphabetically with cross reference. In 1943, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh were combined, and in 1944 Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cardinals were combined. Scores of those teams in those years are listed under both Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and Pittsburgh and the Cardinals. Also, the St. Louis heading covers all games of the original Chicago Cardinals. The cities in which the games were played appear abbreviated after the scores.)

ALL-TIME INDIVIDUAL AND TEAM RECORDS

(Compiled by Elias Sports Bureau)

(Note: AFL or NFL footnoted at bottom of a record category shows record compiled in respective league that is not among top three performances overall. It is a point of information, and does not necessarily indicate the fourth best performance in that category overall. If no footnote follows category, AFL and NFL record is included in top three overall).

1970 WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Tulane Stadium, New Orleans, La. Sunday, January 11, 1970
Attendance: 80,562

The AFL squared the Super Bowl at 2 games apiece with the NFL, building a 16–0 halftime lead behind Len Dawson's superb quarterbacking and a powerful defense and then easily fighting back a Viking rally in the second half. Dawson, the fourth consecutive quarterback to be chosen the Super Bowl's top player, called an almost flawless game, completing 12 of 17 passes and hitting Otis Taylor on a 46-yard play for the final Chiefs' touchdown. The Kansas City defense limited Minnesota's strong rushing game to 67 yards gained and made three interceptions and two fumble recoveries. The crowd of 80, 562 set a Super Bowl record as did the gross receipts of $3,817,872.69.

1967 WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

GREEN BAY 35, KANSAS CITY 10 – At Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, Sunday, January 15, 1967, attendance 61,946 The Green Bay Packers opened the Super Bowl series by defeating Kansas City's American Football League champions 35–10 behind the passing of Bart Starr, the receiving of Max McGee and a key interception by All-Pro safety Willie Wood Green Bay broke open the game with three second-half touchdowns, the first of which was set up by Wood's 40-yard return of an interception to the Chiefs' five-yard-line with the Packers leading by only 14–10 McGee, filling in for ailing Boyd Dowler after having caught only three passes all season, caught seven from Starr for 138 yards and two touchdowns. Elijah Pitts ran for two other scores. The Chiefs' 10 points came in the second quarter; the only TD on a seven-yard pass from Len Dawson to Curtis McClinton. Starr completed 16 of 23 passes for 250 yards and 2 TDs and was chosen the Most Valuable Player. The Packers collected $15,000 per man and the Chiefs $7,500—the largest single-game shares in the history of team sports.

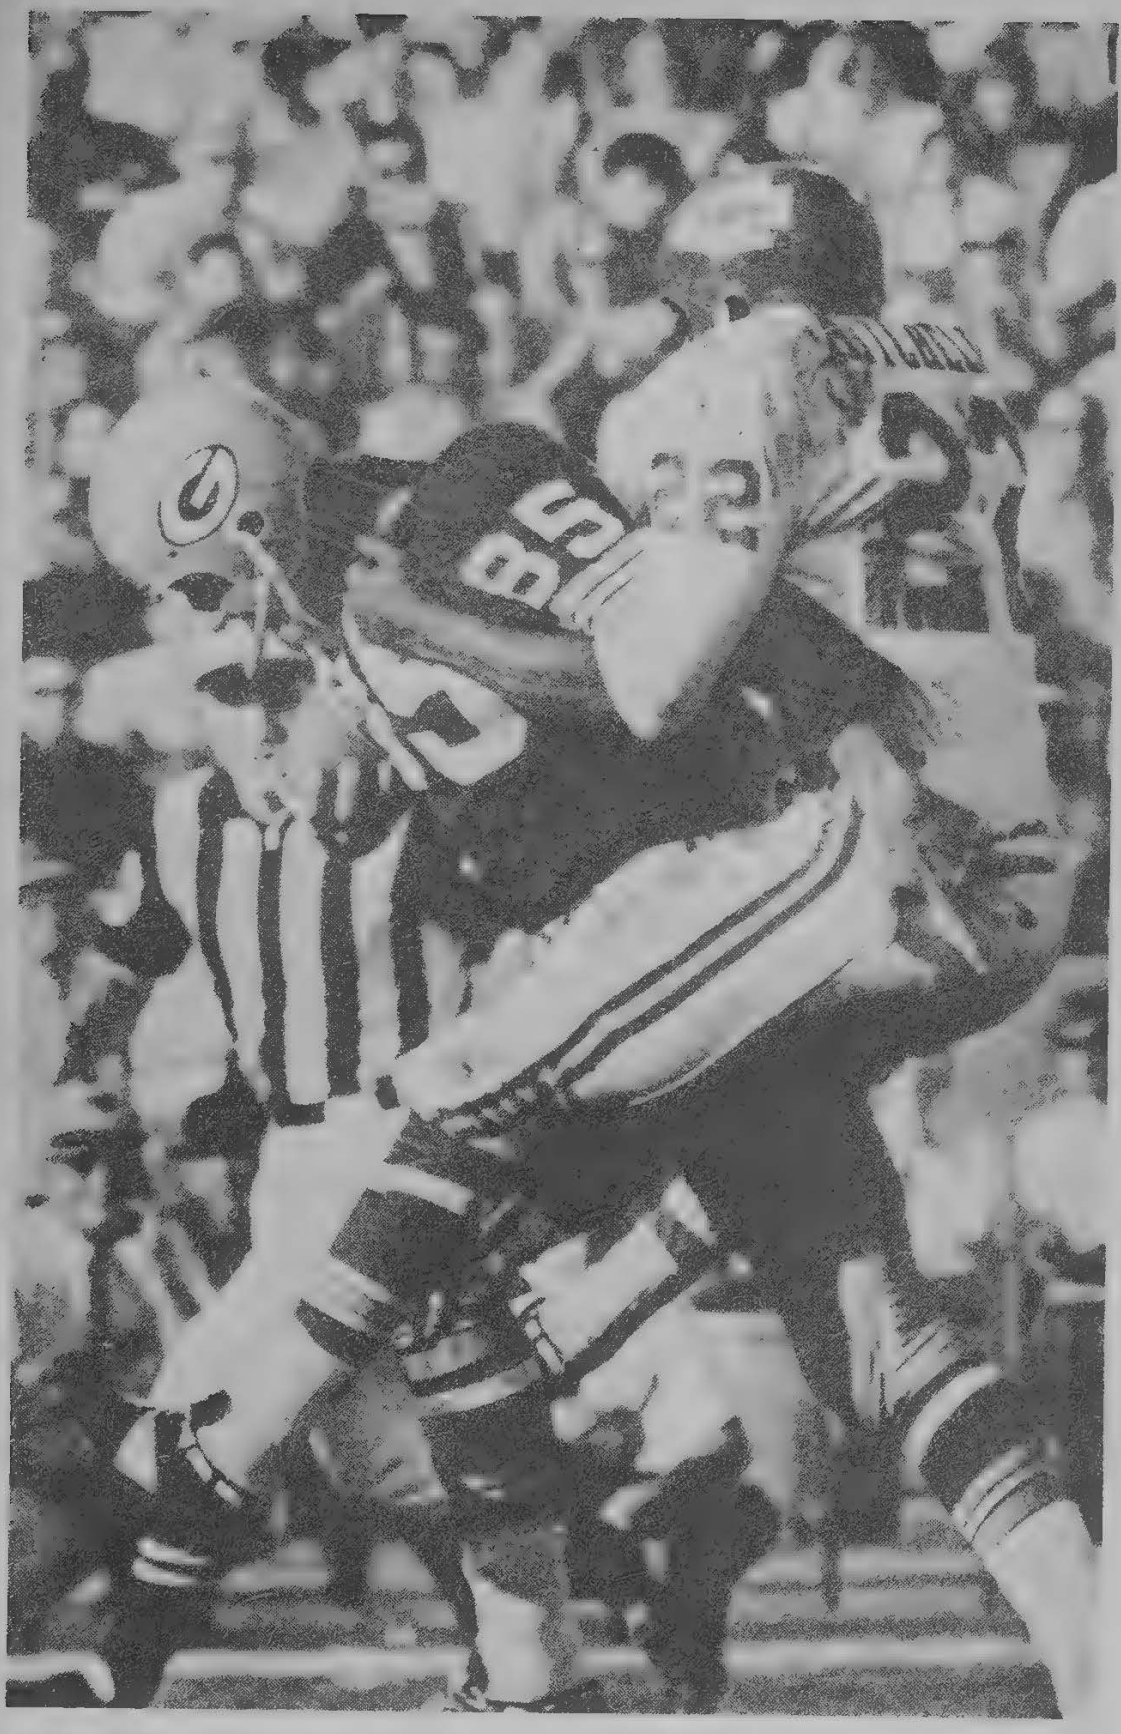
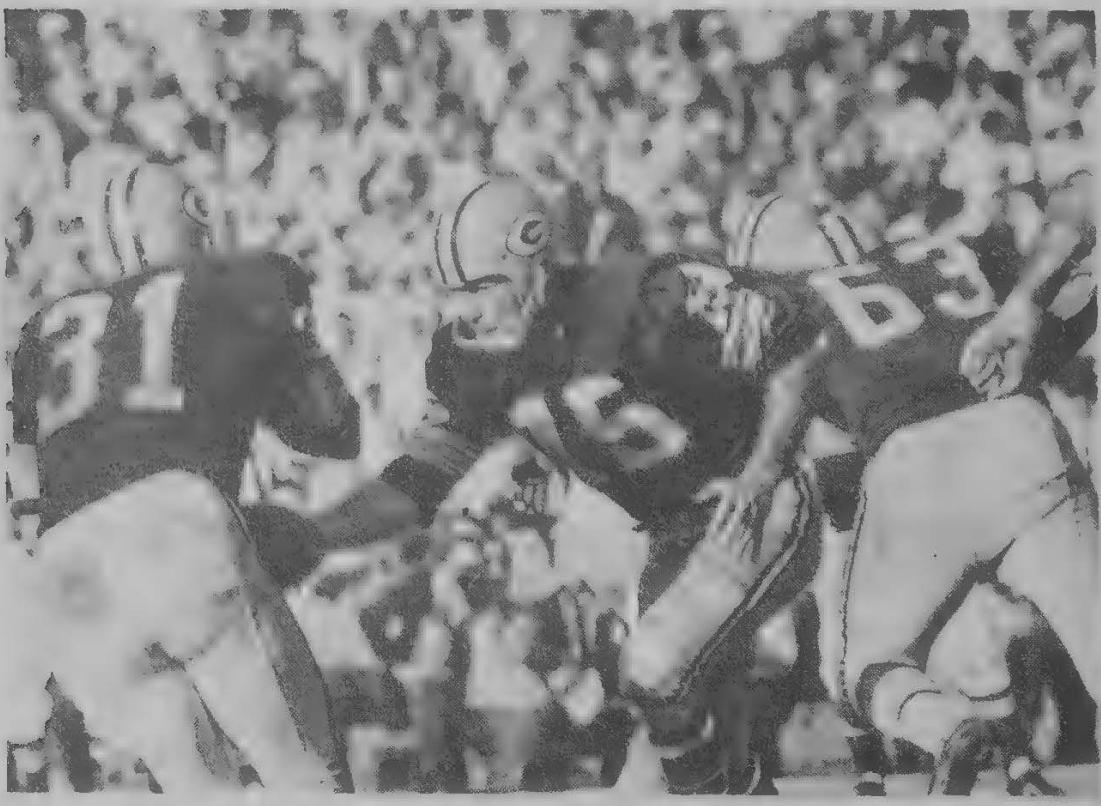
The Super Bowls—
A Pictorial Review

Kansas City Chiefs
vs.
Green Bay Packers
Jan. 15, 1967, Los Angeles
Green Bay 35, Kansas City 10

"In the AFL-NFL Joint Committee meetings, we had been referring to the game as the 'Big One' or the 'Final Game,'" Kansas City Chiefs owner Lamar Hunt recalled. Hunt was subconsciously thinking of the toy he had bought his daughter, something called Super Ball. So he called the game the Super Bowl, and from then on the final game had a name. The original Super Sunday took place January 15, 1967, as the AFL and NFL met for the first time.



At the start of the game, offense dominated. Green Bay was led by the experienced Bart Starr (15, left), the master of coach Vince Lombardi's "perfection football." Jerry Mays tried unsuccessfully to bring down the quarterback. Willie Mitchell did bring down Max McGee (above), but McGee later beat Mitchell to the ball and raced 27 yards to a touchdown, giving Green Bay an early lead.



Kansas City's game plan was predicated on the short pass, which, when Green Bay took a sizable lead, became "bomb"-oriented. Len Dawson (16, left) was capable of throwing the long pass, but was left open to the hard rush of end Willie Davis (87). Green Bay maintained its lead, as Hank Stram explained, by "Bart Starr's uncanny ability to come up with the big third down play." Starr (15, center) made good use of hard-running fullback Jim Taylor who followed the crunching blocks of Fuzzy Thurston (63), Jerry Kramer (64, below) or Bob Skoronski (76). Taylor ran 14 yards for the Packers' second touchdown in just such a way.

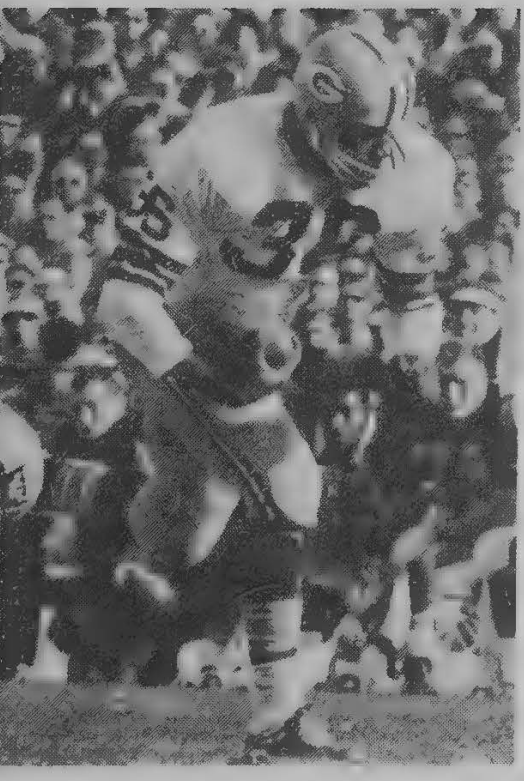
vs.
Oakland Raiders
Jan. 14, 1968, Miami
Green Bay 33, Oakland 14

Daryle Lamonica, Raider quarterback: "We felt we could run on them but . . . they shut off the outside on us." And: "That Nitschke was great. We had everybody cut down on our sweeps except him." Or: "They did a great job taking away my passing lanes." For Oakland it was a case of ifs, ands or buts, a day of frustration and finally, defeat. The Green Bay Packers defended their title in a farewell to Vince Lombardi, who would resign shortly after.



As in the first Super Bowl game, Bart Starr (15, above left) was the key to the Packer offense. His first touchdown was a pass to Boyd Dowler that covered 62 yards. And, in the third quarter when ball control was vital, the Packers ran 25 plays to Oakland's 9. Donny Anderson (44) pushed for yards behind the blocking of Jerry Kramer and scored Green Bay's second touchdown. Ben Wilson (36, left) was a big factor in keeping control of the game as the Packer offensive lineman opened big holes. Finally, in the locker room (above), coach Vince Lombardi hugged his game stars, Don Chandler (four field goals) and quarterback Starr. Tackle Henry Jordan philosophized that perhaps the Raiders weren't really ready. "You can say you know how much it means and you think you are ready to play your best, but until you've once been there, maybe you're not. Next year, I dare say, it'll go right down to the wire."

Baltimore Colts
vs.
New York Jets
Jan. 12, 1969, Miami
New York 16, Baltimore 7

"And we're going to win Sunday—I'll guarantee you." The headlines in the New York Post the next day elaborated little: "Joe Guarantees It." Speaking in Miami, Jet quarterback Namath guaranteed that his team would defeat the Colts in the third Super Bowl, thus making what had previously seemed a routine NFL victory into something special—a chance to see Namath crushed. But the Jets did the crushing in sports biggest upset—guaranteed.

Occasionally the Colts would rip for big yardage, sometimes by pass, sometimes by way of Tom Matte (41, above). But their gains were sporadic, while the Jets' were consistent. Fullback Matt Snell (41, above, right) pounded for 121 yards against the NFL's best defense and Jim Turner (11, right) added enough field goals to secure the Jets' final winning margin.

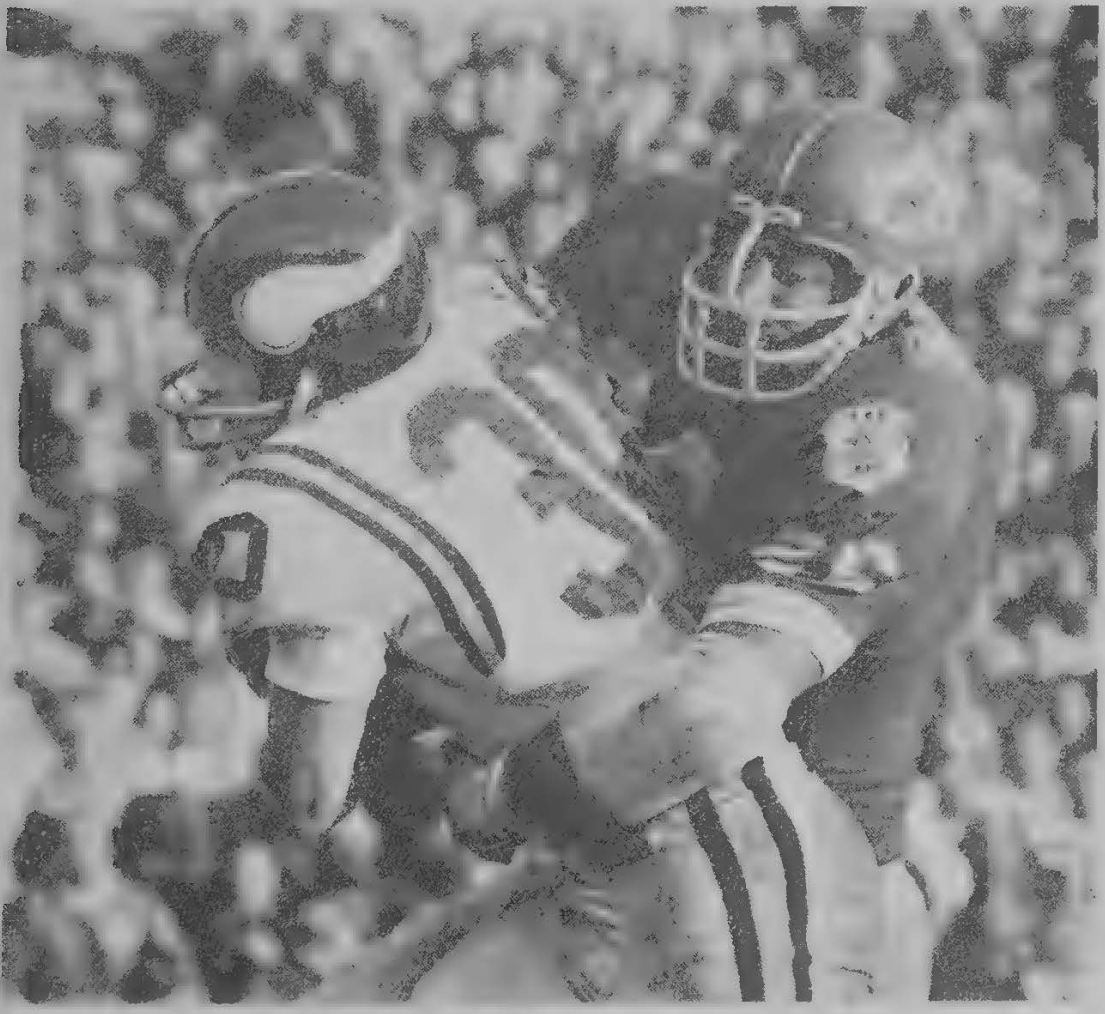
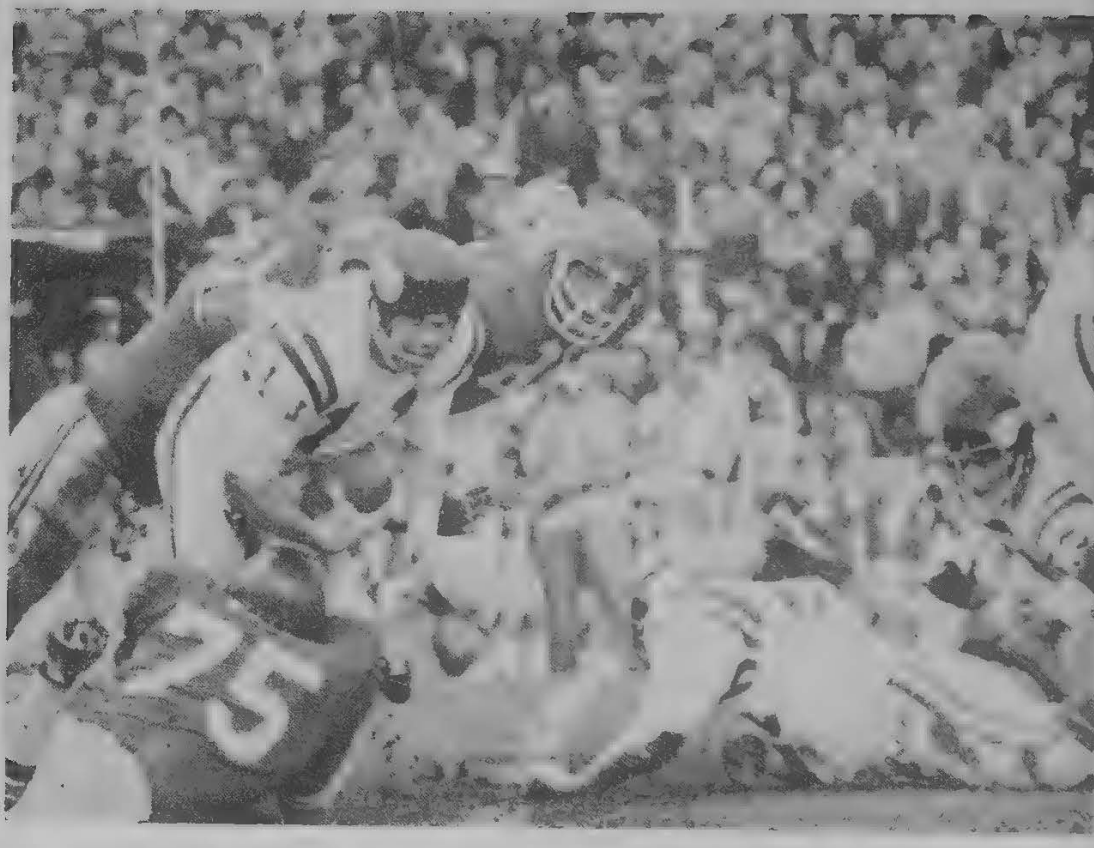
vs.
Minnesota Vikings
Jan. 11, 1970, New Orleans
Kansas City 23, Minnesota 7

The fourth Super Bowl—and the last between the AFL and the NFL—be longed to the Kansas City Chiefs and quarterback Len Dawson. Perhap not so much a victory for the AFL, which it certainly was, the game estab lished the fact that execution, strength and basic football were no longe enough. New, highly complex offensive and defensive formations prove to be the coming thing. The Vikings never were in the game. A new era o football began.

Len Dawson (16, above) overcame a season of injury to engineer the Chiefs' attack, an attack which employed a very successful reverse by Frank Pitts (25). Minnesota could do little rushing against Buck Buchanan as evidenced by Bill Brown's frustrated run.





Clockwise from left: Minnesota fullback Dave Osborn was brushed by Willie Lanier who played a superb game; Jerry Mays (75), Curley Culp (61) and Buck Buchanan (86) dropped quarterback Kapp three times, allowed him only 9 yards on runs and eventually sent him to the sidelines with a shoulder injury; Jan Stenerud's marvelous toe sent the Chiefs to a 9–0 lead which they never relinquished; late in the third quarter the Chiefs broke open the game just as the Vikings gained momentum. Dawson threw to Otis Taylor (88) who, after cornerback Mackbee mistakenly thought a low shoulder would send the end out of bounds, sprinted down the sidelines for a touchdown.

1969 NFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Metropolitan Stadium, Bloomington, Minn. January 4, 1970
Attendance: 46,503

The Minnesota Vikings scored the first two times they had the ball and went on to defeat Cleveland 27–7, becoming the first expansion team to win the championship. On a snow-ringed field, chilled by a temperature of eight degrees, quarterback Joe Kapp scored the first touchdown on a seven-yard run four plays after a 33 yard pass to Gene Washington. On the next series, Kapp threw a 75-yard scoring pass to Washington.

1969 AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Oakland—Alameda County Stadium, Oakland, Calif. January 4, 1970
Attendance: 53,564

Kansas City's determined defense, highlighted by four interceptions, three in the final quarter, carried the Chiefs to a 17–7 victory over Oakland in the final AFL title game. It was Kansas City's third championship victory in ten seasons and it came after the Raiders had twice beaten the Chiefs in regular season play.

Oakland's Daryle Lamonica, who had thrown 34 TD passes during the season, suffered an injury to his throwing hand when he smashed it against Aaron Brown's helmet early in the third period.

NFL PLAYOFF BOWL

Orange Bowl, Miami, Fla. January 3, 1970

Attendance: 30,824

Quarterback Roman Gabriel threw touchdown passes of 35 yards to Les Josephson and 67 yards to Jack Snow the first two times Los Angeles had the ball and the Rams went on to defeat Dallas 31–0 and register the only shutout in the 10-year history of the Playoff Bowl. Gabriel, who completed 12 of 17 passes for 224 yards and was named the game's Most Valuable Player, hit Bob Klein and Snow again for second half touchdowns.

AFL ALL-STAR GAME

Astrodome, Houston — January 17, 1970

Attendance: 30,170

The West limited the East to a third-period field goal in scoring a 26–3 victory in the final American Football League All-Star Game. John Hadl completed 18 of 26 passes, including 7 to his San Diego teammate, Lance Alworth, and was voted the game's Most Valuable Player. Jim Turner's 44-yard field goal saved the East from the only shutout in the game's history. Three leading quarterbacks, Joe Namath for the East and Daryle Lamonica and Len Dawson for the West, were unable to play because of injuries.

SEVEN STEPS TO COOLING SYSTEM CARE

Your car's cooling system has a critical job to do every time you drive—winter or summer. To assure that it does the job without fail, some attention on your part is required. And there's more to it than just adding anti-freeze. If anti-freeze is added to a dirty cooling system, it cannot circulate properly. The system will overheat and boil and you've got real trouble.

What to do? Use preventive maintenance—caring for the cooling system before something goes wrong. By following the steps described here, you'll be well on the road to its proper functioning—and care-free driving.

1 Remove radiator cap, add Du Pont Fast Flush; set heater control to maximum and idle engine for 10 to 30 minutes. (Older cars with badly clogged cooling systems may require more extensive cleaning with Du Pont Heavy Duty Cooling System Cleanser.)

Corrosion and contamination are the real causes of most cooling system problems. Normally, a flushing with Du Pont Fast Flush—or in more serious cases—Heavy Duty Cooling System Cleanser—will suffice. If you have an older car, the best way to avoid possible difficulties with previously accumulated rust and other contaminants is to back-flush both the cooling and heating systems before adding any anti-freeze (the National Automotive Radiator Service Association has a recommended procedure). Overheating can cause serious problems. And result in costly repair bills. Pistons and cylinder walls can be scuffed and scored, and automatic transmission damage can occur, too, because of fluid deterioration. Preventive maintenance is the best maintenance.

2 Open all petcocks—engine block, radiator, and heater. While system is draining, flush with a continuous stream of water until the water draining from the petcocks is clean and clear. Turn motor off, let system drain, and close all petcocks.

When your car's cooling system is working properly, coolant passes around the combustion chambers of the engine and lowers the temperature of the metal it touches. Since the coolant is warmed in the process, it in turn must be cooled before returning to the engine again. This is accomplished when it passes through the radiator, where the heat is transferred from the coolant through thin metal fins to the surrounding air. The coolant then returns to the engine, and the cycle begins anew. Several things can happen to interrupt this cycle: the coolant can become hot and boil away; the metal on the inside of the system can rust and clog radiator passages; or, the coolant can leak out through small holes and cracks in the radiator or through loose hose connections.

3 Inspect hoses and tighten all hose clamps; check fan belt and front of radiator.

While you're working on the cooling system, take a few minutes to inspect the hoses and connections carefully for signs of leaks or deterioriation. Check the hoses for cracks or wear. Replace if necessary. Also check hose clamps and tighten as needed. It's a lot easier and less expensive to replace hoses and clamps in your driveway than on the highway. Loose or worn fan belts and insects lodged on the front of the radiator are other things to look for. The fan belt should have about one inch of free play. If it has more, it should be tightened. If it's cracked or badly worn, replace it. If the radiator is clogged with insects, wash them off with your garden hose from the back of the radiator.

4 Add anti-leak "Zerex" anti-freeze in the amount recommended for desired freezing and/or overheating protection. Check instructions on container.

A good first step in preventive maintenance for the cooling system is the selection of a top-quality, multi-purpose anti-freeze. Anti-leak "Zerex" Anti-Freeze and Summer Coolant is such a product. The first really new anti-freeze product introduced in 40 years. Du Pont Anti-Leak "Zerex" is an anti-freeze and summer coolant that not only protects against freeze-ups, overheating, rust and corrosion, but also seals present and future radiator leaks. Its polymer-based leak-sealing ability—developed through years of Du Pont chemical research—is unique, unlike ordinary fibrous anti-leaks. It has been thoroughly tested and proven in millions of cars and the first to be fully guaranteed. It is completely safe for use in all cars with properly operating cooling and heating systems.

5 Add water to within one inch of overflow (or as marked on radiator); replace radiator cap and run engine with heater set at "High" until the engine reaches normal operating temperature.

Anti-Leak "Zerex" is an improved ethylene glycol product containing a unique combination of polymer particles. When installed in the cooling system, (recommended year-round solution: 50% Zerex®, 50% water) these particles circulate harmlessly throughout the system. If a leak should occur, the larger polymer particles immediately rush to the gap and form a primary dam. Smaller particles quickly follow and fill the spaces between the larger ones and a permanent seal is formed. Should the system be drained and refilled in the future, the leak will not recur.

6 Turn engine off and let it cool. Recheck liquid level in radiator to make sure it's full, according to owner's manual; add water if necessary.

Anti-Leak "Zerex" anti-freeze added a new dimension to cooling system protection: Sealing radiator leaks—now and in the future. In addition to protection against freeze-ups, rust and corrosion, it protects against overheating and boiling, because Zerex® is also a summer coolant that raises the boiling point of the cooling system. This is particularly important in cars with air conditioners. In fact, all car manufacturers now recommend year-round use of anti-freeze/coolant in the cooling system.

7 Have your service station check the solution periodically with hydrometer to make sure no anti-freeze loss has occurred.

When Anti-Leak "Zerex" was introduced nationally in 1969, it was backed with the only unconditional, money-back guarantee in the anti-freeze business. That's because "Zerex" was, and continues to be, thoroughly tested both by Du Pont and independent research firms. Du Pont has a long and distinguished record for introducing new and better products —and standing behind them. The guarantee still goes. If, for any reason, you are not completely satisfied with anti-leak Zerex® anti-freeze, write:

TWO EASY STEPS FOR YEAR 'ROUND COOLING SYSTEM PROTECTION

1. Drain your cooling system and clean with Du Pont Fast Flush. Fast Flush removes rust, grease, and scale from your car's cooling system . . . won't harm metal or rubber parts.

2. Add anti-leak ZEREX® anti-freeze and summer coolant. "Zerex" protects your car's cooling system from rust and corrosion . . . protects against freezing in winter and boil-over in summer. And, anti-leak "Zerex" is guaranteed to stop and prevent leaks in your car's radiator for a full year . . . or your money back.

Follow this simple two-step procedure and you'll have trouble-free cooling system performance all year long.

PRO FOOTBALL

For the first time, the official Record Manual of the National Football League—covering all 26 professional football teams, including the ten former members of the AFL—is available to the general public. Compiled by the NFL office, the Record Manual has long been known to members of the news media as the official statistical and historical publication of professional football. It includes complete records and statistics by game, season and lifetime; a week-by-week capsule rundown of every game played in 1969, a special section on the Super Bowl, complete team directories, the full draft list, and much more—all highlighted by a series of action photographs, and a foreword by Commissioner Pete Rozelle. In addition, there is a complete week-by-week schedule for the 1970 season.
